

DEPUTIES CLASH WITH STRIKERS

Of Steel Plant on Principal Business Street of Rankin, Penn.

SPECTATOR IS KILLED

And 12 Others Injured Including Several Women and Six-Months-Old Babe.

Pittsburg, Jan. 29.—Fighting with rifles, revolvers and stones, deputy sheriffs and strikers from the Rankin plant of the American Steel and Wire company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, battled for an hour last night, one man being killed and 12 persons injured, several fatally.

All the wounded, except two Deputy Sheriffs and a policeman, were spectators. Not a striker was injured as far as can be learned.

Among the injured are several women and a six-months-old child. The deputy sheriffs and strikers collided on Hawkins avenue, one of the principal streets of Rankin Borough, which adjoins this city. The county officers, armed with revolvers and rifles, and the strikers, armed with revolvers and stones, battled for an hour within an area of two street squares.

The rioting and shooting ended when the deputy sheriffs retreated within the fences of the mill.

The dead man, George Kozley, was shot twice in the stomach.

The injured:

Fritz Beck, shot in left arm.

Mrs. John Seblan, shot in left arm.

Richard Parish, shot in left leg.

Annie Leha, shot in stomach.

Walter Barnett, chief of police of Rankin, hand lacerated.

Michael Miklos, 6 months old, shot in left ear.

Charles Benson, shot in stomach.

Anton Andisk, shot in breast.

Two deputy sheriffs were shot in the back and two unidentified negroes received bullets in their legs.

Rankin, the scene of the riot, is almost directly across the Monongahela river from Homestead, where the great steel riots of 1892 occurred. The trouble last night was the first serious mill riot since that time.

The strikers, numbering 300, held a meeting late yesterday in a public hall to consider the situation. When they left the hall they posed for a newspaper picture, and then separating into small groups, walked down Hawkins avenue. About the same time 50 deputies, headed by Sheriff Bruff, Burgess J. Knox Milligan of Rankin, and Chief of Police Barnett left the wire mill and marched toward Hawkins avenue.

The two forces met and stopped. A coal wagon passed, the negro driver yelling lustily at his mules. Some one picked a piece of coal from the wagon and threw it into the crowd of strikers. Within a moment the riot was on.

In a twinkling the air was filled with coal, stones, and bullets. Two deputies fired a number of volleys with their revolvers, but were steadily forced back to the mill. Within 15 minutes the deputies merged from the mill armed with guns loaded with buckshot. With the second appearance of the deputies the more sanguinary of the two skirmishes occurred.

The battle was promptly renewed. Almost every window facing Hawkins avenue for a distance of three squares was broken and several persons in the houses were injured. The crash of the guns, breaking glass and screams of men and women infuriated the strikers. They desperately charged the deputies, and the latter again retreated behind the mill walls, taking with them the wounded deputy sheriffs and the Rankin chief of police.

Within a short time the man killed had been sent to the morgue, the seriously injured to hospitals or their homes, and the borough became quiet. The strike at the plant of the American Steel and Wire company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, started less than a week ago. The strikers are mainly foreigners employed as laborers in the galvanizing, shipping and fence wire departments.

They are paid at the rate of 15 cents an hour, or $1.90 a day of 10 hours. They are demanding 20 cents an hour.

Shortly after the trouble began a temporary understanding was reached between the men and the company by which the difficulty was to be decided by conferences. This plan, however, failed.

The first outbreak occurred last Saturday night when strikers and policemen of Rankin clashed. Nine persons were injured, a majority of them officers. Many shots were fired without effect.

Sunday was quiet, owing to the presence of Sheriff Judd Bruff of Allegheny county, with a large force of deputies. During Saturday night, however, the strikers took possession of the hills surrounding Rankin borough, building bonfires. Occasionally shots were directed toward the yards of the mill.

Early Monday morning the deputy sheriffs dispersed the strikers, extinguished the fires, and Sheriff Bruff issued an order closing all saloons. This was followed later by the probable fatal stabbing of a deputy sheriff, whose assailant escaped.

Yesterday Burgess J. Knox Milligan of Rankin, issued a proclamation declaring the borough in a state of riot, warning all children from the streets and continuing the order to keep all saloons closed.

The scene of the riot is 4,000 feet from the mill where 300 struck last Saturday, and part of the main business and residential sections of Rankin.

George Cozley, who was killed, was a spectator and in no way identified with the strikers. Michael Ratchmer, proprietor of the Ratchmer Hotel, said that he and his wife had escaped death by lying flat on the floor. The big hotel is riddled with shot. It was directly in the line of the deputies' fire and not a window is whole.

It developed today that the deputies were not employed by the county, but had been appointed by the Rankin authorities. According to Chief of Police Barnett the deputies had no right outside the mill.

Sheriff Bruff has taken personal charge of the situation. In a statement the sheriff said the officers were not deputy sheriffs, but were special deputies.

"I am not in charge," he said, "and there will be no further rioting if I can help it."

GOV. COX SENDS SPECIAL MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE

Columbus, Jan. 29.—Governor Cox this afternoon sent a special message to the legislature urging the defects in the Smith one per cent. tax law be remedied at once. This action follows the decision of the Supreme court yesterday, which struck a staggering blow to the law in holding that a levy greater than 15 mills could be made. In his message the Governor expressed the belief that the principles of the Smith law should be restored. The measures will be considered by the house and senate.

DEMOCRATS WIN SENATE VICTORY

Washington, Jan. 28.—By a tie vote, the Republicans of the senate today lost in their effort to force another executive session to consider President Taft's appointments. Democratic leaders forced a roll call and with the aid of Senator Brewster and Senator La Follette, Republicans and Senator Woodruff, Progressives, prevented the senate from resuming the fight.

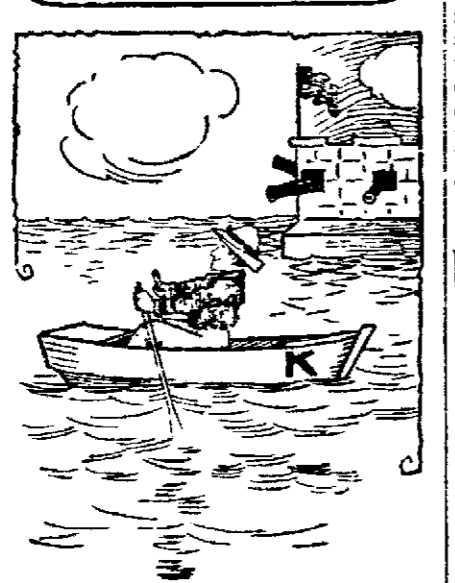

JUSTICE OFFICE NOT ABOLISHED

Columbus, Jan. 29.—Offices of the justice of the peace are not abolished under the new judicial amendment to the constitution, according to a decision handed down today by the Supreme court in designating the courts of the state the new amendment failed to mention the offices of the justice of the peace.

PROTESTS AGAINST MEASURE

Delegations Visit Gov. Cox and Ask Him to Act

OBJECT TO GREEN BILL

State Reference Library Bill Now a Law—To Protect Quail Until 1918.

Columbus, Jan. 29.—Representatives of two employers organizations, the Contractors association and the Paintings and Masonry association of Cleveland were here today and held a conference with Governor Cox relative to the Green compensation bill. Objections were expressed against the bill and the governor was asked to act against it.

A delegation of Springfield manufacturers will confer with the governor tomorrow. At the governor's office it was said that many protests against the bill are being received from manufacturers and employers of labor from all parts of the state.

Governor James M. Cox today made public a liquor license plan submitted by Judge A. Z. Blair of Portsmouth, which differs little from the bill initiated by the wets except it makes the task of securing a license more difficult. He provides for a state license board composed of three members and three county license commissioners to be selected by the state board. The Governor said he had not the time to study the plan. Superintendent Wayne B. Wheeler declared however that Judge Blair's plan was not endorsed by the league.

The Black bill providing for the establishment of a legislative reference library was put through both branches of the legislature Tuesday afternoon, and will be a law as soon as the governor signs it. Professor Lowrie, who is to be the director, has already been at work several days, though the state library commission can not elect him until the bill is a law. The bill carries an appropriation of $10,000 for the installation of the library and other expenses.

With but six dissenting votes the house passed the bill of Mr. King of Franklin amending the sales by weight law so as to make it effective, after the author had made a brief but excellent explanation of it, illustrated with samples of fraudulent measures that had been taken in the trade here. Only by an agreement in writing can sales be made by measure when this bill become a law. A penalty of fine from $10 to $100 for the first offense, and from $25 to $200, or three months' imprisonment or both for the second, are provided.

By the provisions of the Reid house bill passed by the house Tuesday afternoon county commissioners having county memorial buildings, may place them in the custody of commissions of six persons, veterans to be preferred in making the selections, who are to serve without compensation. On the author's own request the Feilinger house bill, making it a felony to take an automobile and use it without the owner's consent, was indefinitely postponed. He asked this after the house had amended it so as to permit such permission to be given orally and to give the court the option of fining or imprisoning the accused. Mr. Feilinger said the bill so amended would be worse than the present law. His bill requiring all vehicles to carry lights at night was sent to the committee on highways.

The sentiment for protecting game birds and animals seems strong in the house. The Bonnell bill forbidding the killing of skunks until December 1, 1915, was passed in that branch after it had been amended so as to make it also an offense to have a skunk skin in possession in that time. The penalty is a fine of from $10 to $25. The farmers asked it on the ground that the skunk is a great destroyer of the white grub. Immediately after this the house passed with six dissenting votes the Hoaglin bill prohibiting the shooting of quail until 1918. The lovers of (Continued on page 9, col. 3.)

CONVICTS BY GOOD WORK MODEL HIGHWAY MAY SUCCEED IN BANISHING GLOOMY WALLS FOREVER

Convicts at Work, Completed Road and Highway Commissioner Marker.

A model brick road, built near Columbus, O., by convict labor seems destined to overthrow the penal system of the state. The men worked willingly without shackles or armed guards. No disorder resulted. Now Governor Cox proposes to destroy the old gloomy prison with its germ-laden shops and employ convicts solely in outdoor work such as road building and farming.

State Highway Commissioner Marker says the brick road built by the convicts will last for many years.

YOU MEN IN NEWARK BUSINESS

By Chalmers L. Parncoat.

The whole force of your own judgment demands that you give some of your time and attention to Board of Trade work. You may have been putting off this necessary duty with the excuse you couldn't spare the time.

You certainly can spare time to work for your own interests, can't you? Well, you are adding just that much to your own profits every time you do something to help Newark grow.

If every man would devote a few hours a week to helping Newark, directing his efforts through the Board of Trade, the development of this city would be more rapid and substantial.

SUPREME COURT DECISION ON SMITH TAX LAW WILL NOT AFFECT THIS CITY

"The decision, in my opinion, is sound in every detail, and merely makes it plain that the one per cent law for current expenses cannot be sidestepped, but that for raising money to pay bonded debts contracted before June 2, 1911, there is no limitation."—Roderic Jones, City Solicitor.

"There can be no tampering with the sinking fund, which must be kept up for the credit of the city by means, if necessary, extraordinary."—W. L. Prout, Board of Sinking Fund Trustees.

"The decision in no way can affect this city, and its gist is that the new law cannot be retroactive and prevent a levy even in excess of the 15 mills maximum, when the debt to be paid is a bonded one incurred before the Smith law was passed."—City Auditor Wulfoop.

The state court decision rendered Tuesday on the Smith law was considered by the Board of Sinking Fund Trustees. The tax rate in 1912 was a flat one of 12 mills, 10 mills being for current purposes, and the other two mills for the sinking fund.

On January 1, 1912, the revenue from the water works was in excess of the operating expenses $11,414.60, and of this amount $2000 was transferred to the sinking fund and to take care of the interest and bonds falling due for the water works. Any revenue derived from the water works, outside of operating expenses, that may be turned over to the sinking fund, can be used to pay water works bonds, and interest on them, and for no other purpose, so that this action on the part of the board made the 12 mill levy apply for all purposes of the board of sinking fund trustees.

The board of trustees made estimates for 1913 and divided a total levy of 12 mills as follows, on a duplicate of $270,000:

City	171 mills
County	2,719 mills
Schools	10 mills
Township	68 mills
Memorial	15 mills
Total	7,411 mills

The board of trustees made estimates for 1913 and divided a total levy of 12 mills as follows, on a duplicate of $270,000:

City	171 mills
County	2,719 mills
Schools	10 mills
Township	68 mills
Memorial	15 mills
Total	7,411 mills

sinking fund for the coming year will be:

Bonds due	$ 68,849.14
Interest	38,928.48
Miscellaneous	2,000.00

Total $109,777.62

The estimated revenue available for the sinking fund at a rate of 2.59 mills on the duplicate of $27,000,000, will be, in round numbers:

General taxation	$75,600.00
Special assessment taxes	22,000.00

Total $97,600.00

The surplus in the water works fund on Jan. 1, 1912, was $18,112.16 and from this $15,000 will be transferred to the sinking fund, which will bring the total up to $112,600, or about $2000 more than will be needed, and this without increasing the total levy of 12 mills.

Whatever effect the decision may have in other cities and taxation districts in Ohio, Newark will go back to 1913 with a tax rate three mills lower than that which was considered the maximum before the decision of Tuesday.

One noticeable feature of the above figures is that the levy for school purposes nearly equals that for the entire city, including the levy for sinking fund purposes.

POLICE CHIEF EXONERATED BY A COMMISSION

Canton, O., Jan. 29.—Chief of Police H. W. Smith today was exonerated by the special commissioner, when heard charges against him. The commission found that the chief had been an "abstinent" and not a "protection" man, and did not commit immoral acts except in the discharge of his duties.

CHAPTER IX.

The Bitter Fruit.

Fortune had a hearty contempt for persons who ate their breakfast in bed. For her the glory of the day was the fresh fairness of the morning, when every one's step was buoyant, and all life stirred energetically. There was cheer and hope everywhere; men faced their labors with clear eye and feared nothing; women sang at their work. It was only at the close of day that despair and defeat stalked the highways. So she was up with the sun, whether in her own garden or in these odd and mystical cities. Thus she saw the native as he was, not as he later in the day pretended to be, for the benefit of the Feringhi about to be stretched upon the sacrificial stone. She saw, with gladness, the honey-bee thrilling the rose; the plowman's share baring the soil; the morning, the morning, the two or three hours that were all, her own. Her mother was always irritable and petulant in the morning, and her uncle never developed the gift of speech till after luncheon.

She had the same love of prowling that lured Rynane from the beaten paths. She was not inquisitive but curious, and that ready disarming smile of hers opened many a portal.

She was balancing upon her gloved palm, thoughtfully, a Soudanese head-trinket, a pendant of twisted gold-wires, flawed emeralds and second pearls, really exquisite and not generally to be found outside the expensive shops in the European quarters, and there infrequently. The merchant wanted twenty pounds for it. Fortune shook her head, regretfully. It was far beyond her means. She sighed. Only once in a great while she saw something for which her whole heart cried out. This pendant was one of these.

"I will give you five pounds for it. That is all I have with me."

"Salaam, madame," said the jeweler, reaching for the pendant.

"If you will send it to the Hotel Semiramis this afternoon . . . But she faltered at the sight of the merchant's incredulous smile.

"I'll give you ten for it; not a piasre more. I can get one like it in the Sharika Kamel for that amount."

Both Fortune and the merchant turned.

"You, Horace?"

"Yes, my child. And what are you doing here alone, without a dragon?"

"Oh, I have been through here alone many times. I'm not afraid. Isn't it beautiful? He wants twenty pounds for it, and I cannot afford that."

She had not seen him in many weeks, yet she accepted his sudden appearance without question or surprise. She was used to his turning up at unexpected moments. Of course, she had known that he was in Cairo; where her mother and uncle were this secretive man was generally within calling. There had been a time when she had eagerly plied him with questions, but he had always erected barriers of evasion, and finally she ceased her importunities, for she concluded that her questions were such. No matter to whom she turned, there was no one to answer her questions, questions born of doubt and fear.

"Ten pounds," repeated Rynane, a hand in his pocket.

The merchant laughed. Here were a young man and his sweetheart. His experience had taught him, and not unwisely, that love is an easy victim, too proud to haggle, too generous to bargain sharply. "Twenty," he reiterated.

"Salaam!" said Rynane. "Good day!" He drew the somewhat resisting hand of Fortune under his arm and whispered. "Leave it to me." They gained the street.

The merchant was dazed. He had misjudged what he now recognized as an old hand. The two were turning up another street when he ran out, shouting to them and waving the pendant. Rynane laughed.

"Ten pounds. I am a poor man, defend, and I need the money. Ten pounds. I am giving it away. The merchant's eyes filled with tears, a trick left to him from out of the ruins of his youth, that ready service to forestall the merited rod.

Rynane counted out ten sovereigns and put the pendant in Fortune's hand. And the pleasure in his heart was such as he had not known in many days. The merchant wisely hurried back to his shop.

"But . . ." she began protestingly.

"Tut, tut! I have known you since you wore short dresses and tam-o-shanters."

"I really cannot accept it as a gift. Let me borrow the ten pounds."

"And why can't you accept a little gift from me?"

She had no ready answer. She in life is to avoid the humdrum."

"Is it necessary to risk your life for these excitements? Is your life nothing more to you than something to experiment with?"

"Truth, sometimes I don't know. Fortune. Sometimes I don't care. When one has gambled for big stakes, it is hard to play for penny points."

"A strong, healthy man like you ought not to court death."

"I do not seek it. My only temptation is to see how well I can get to the Man in the Shroud, as some poet calls it, without being touched. I'll make you my confessor. You see, it is like this. A number of wearied men recently formed a company whereby monotony became an obsolete word in our vocabulary. You must not think I'm jesting; I'm serious enough. This company forgoes all adventures and romances and sells them to men of spirit. I became a member, and the trip to Bagdad is the result. One never has to share with the company. The rewards are all yours. All one has to do is to pay a lump sum down for the adventure furnished. You work out the end yourself, unhindered and unassisted."

"Are you really serious?"

"Never more so. Now, Percival Algernon has always been wanting an adventure, but the practical side of him has made him hold aloof. I told him about this concern, and he refuses to believe in it. So I am going to undertake to prove it to him. This is confidential. You will say nothing, I know."

"He will come to no harm physically."

"Lord, no! It will be mild and innocuous. Of course, if any one told him that an adventure was toward for his especial benefit, it would spoil all. I can rely upon your silence?"

She was silent. He witnessed her indecision with distrust. Perhaps he had said too much.

"Won't you promise? Haven't I always been kind to you, Fortune, times when you most needed kindness?"

"I promise to say nothing. But if any harm comes to that young man, either in jest or in earnest, I will never speak to you again."

"I see that, after getting Percival Algernon into an adventure, I've got to clear him safely out of it. Well, undergoing repairs and a thorough overhauling. She will proceed to San Francisco, where I will board her.

"It is my intention to endeavor to sail up the Alaskan coast into the Arctic ocean and through the Northwest passage to Greenland, the reverse of my previous trip in the Gjoa."

Captain Amundsen said he had no idea what he might find on the voyage. There might be an extensive archipelago in his path, he said, and then there might not be.

"I really have no idea what I will encounter," he said. "That is why I am going to make the trip."

The next six months, he added, he would spend in an extensive lecture tour of the United States and Canada. In July he intends to return to his home in Norway, where he will stay until the time for his cruise in the Arctic ocean arrives.

"I will have from twelve to fourteen men with me," the explorer said. "They will be practically the same men who accompanied me to the south pole. At present they are in Norway, studying and preparing themselves for the next voyage."

Asked if he expected to run across any of the blond Eskimos reported by Stefansson, Captain Amundsen smiled and said it was not likely.

"I have never seen any in my trips in the Arctic," he said. "But I would hardly care to express an opinion as to their existence. Mr. Stefansson I know to be a very reliable man, and I place great credit in his statements. The purposes of my voyage are purely scientific. Little is known of the vast region north of the continent, and any data we may obtain will be extremely valuable."

"It is likely that I will have a wireless apparatus on the Fram on this trip, although that is still an open question. It would doubtless assist greatly in making observations, for through the aid of stations which it is proposed be established in northern Alaska, Spitzbergen and points in Greenland, comparisons of the climatic conditions that could thus be made would be extremely useful."

"I do not intend to go to the north pole. What would be the interest? It has been discovered, man has been there and there would be no incentive. We shall confine ourselves to purely scientific studies of the currents and lands with which we may come in contact."

Since his last visit to this country, made prior to his successful trip to the south pole, Captain Amundsen has removed his mustache and beard.

"It is necessary to be smooth shaven in the cold regions," he said. "Contrary to the general belief that a beard warms the face it is a great hindrance to the form and a beard becomes a source of great pain and annoyance."

"The mean annual temperature at the north pole," he added, "is 15 degrees below zero. The warmest it ever gets there is 30 degrees, and I have known the mercury to descend to 75 degrees below zero. One never has a chance to stand around and freeze, however, for there is always a vast amount of work to be done. At times when we were snowbound we worked at perfecting our apparatus, and time never dragged."

AMUNDSEN WILL EXPLORE ARCTIC

South Pole Discoverer to Make Trip in 1914.

TO USE WIRELESS OUTFIT.

Will Not Go to the Pole, Says Famous Voyager, but Will Confine Efforts to Scientific Research—The Fram to Be Used Again.

New York—Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, whom the United States formally recognized as the discoverer of the south pole at a dinner given in his honor by the National Geographic society at Washington, has made public the tentative plans of his contemplated cruise in arctic waters in 1914.

"I will leave San Francisco in June, 1914," Captain Amundsen declared, "and will proceed to Alaska and on up through the Bering sea. The Fram, the vessel in which I sailed into the antarctic before making the last dash to the pole, is now at Buenos Aires

TWIN KILL, SISTER SUFFERS

Girl Sixty Miles Away Shares Either Effects With Brother.

Baltimore.—Medical scientists are interested deeply in the remarkable sympathetic sensitiveness of Clarence Marsh and his twin sister Clara, eighteen years old. The case was called to the physicians' attention by an operation on the brother in the Maryland University hospital. Though hundreds of miles may separate the twins, any mental or physical ailment that attacks one is felt immediately by the other. They have experienced these sensations since they were small children. When Clarence was put under ether for the operation, his sister became ill in Frederick City and suffered the same fever and nausea as her brother experienced on the operating table sixty miles away.

When the twins were several years younger they suffered measles and whooping cough on the same day and became ill in the same hour. Clarence went to Pledge Institute, Hightstown, N. J., last September, to study for the ministry. In the latter part of October he became ill enough to need a physician. When he was better he wrote home, telling his family of his illness. He learned that at the time he was seized with his malady his sister was so ill in Frederick that she, too, required a physician's care.

SUFFRAGETTES ON OWN HOOK.

To March by Themselves Instead of In Inaugural Parade.

Chicago.—There will be no suffragists marching behind President Wilson and Mr. Taft in Washington, March 4. The plan has been dropped. It was announced, by officials of the National Woman's Suffrage association. Instead the suffragists will march through the streets of the capital March 3, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Miss Jane Addams and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw.

In announcing their intention not to appear in the inaugural parade the officials said:

"The inaugural parade is primarily an affair for the incoming president. What we are seeking to do is to attract attention to the woman's suffrage movement. We can do this best by having our demonstration separate."

AUNT'S PORTRAIT FOR TAFT.

Boston Women Have Miss Torrey Painted for "Will."

Boston.—President Taft received as a New Year's gift a handsome portrait in oils of his Aunt Della Torrey. The painting is the work of Miss Emily B. White, a young Boston artist, who recently won the James William Page scholarship at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

The names of the donors of the gift have been carefully guarded, yet reliable sources have sent forth the word that the portrait was ordered by several prominent Boston women.

Aunt Della Torrey sat for the portrait last summer and displayed a particular interest because it was to be a gift to her favorite, "Nephew Will."

LEAP YEAR GIRLS INCREASE MARRIAGES

Fair Chicagoans Lead the List In Popping the Question.

New York.—The per capita allowance of modesty enjoyed by New York girls is greater than the portion of that virtue with which the Chicago girl is leavened. The marriage license statistics prove it. Observe and compare.

During the past leap year the marriage license bureau in Chicago dispensed 3,374 more permits than in 1911. Chief Clerk Hart of the license bureau in New York announces that 38,264 licenses were issued. This is an excess of 2,162 over the year before.

There is no doubt that the total is greater because of leap year.

From Brooklyn comes word that the leap year total is far greater than that of any other year since 1903.

HALF CENTURY COURTSHIP.

It Took Bashful Pair Forty-seven Years to Decide.

Brownsville, Pa.—It took Miss Kate Lanning, sixty-two years old, of West Brownsville, and Samuel Clear of California, Pa., also sixty-two, just forty-seven years to decide that they should be married. Every week for the last forty-seven years Clear appeared at the Lanning home twice, but he never summoned sufficient courage to pop the question until a few days ago. At last they are married.

The bridegroom's explanation of the long courtship is that the condition was so ideal he hated to think of jarring it through marriage.

Talking Cat Is Discovered.

Berlin.—A cat named Peter, which is credited with talking and singing powers, has been discovered in Hamburg. Peter which was trained by his owner, a woman dentist named Sutor is said to possess almost human intelligence.

Witnesses declare that the cat can distinctly say the German words for "Anna," "burrah," "more," "Elena," "no" and "enough." Peter also sings three popular tunes, using monosyllabic words.

FUGITIVE TELLS OF PRISON BREAK

Green Boasts of Way He Overcame Sing Sing Guards.

WENT INTO CANADA FIRST.

Drifted South and into Mexico—Admits That He "Did Some Shooting There"—Had Narrow Escapes With Police in Many Cities.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Filibustering in Mexico, outwitting the Canadian mounted police and evading the police of a score of American cities are a few of the adventures undergone by Billy Green during the two years he has been a fugitive from justice.

Green was leader of the break from Sing Sing prison of Oct. 1, 1910, in which he and four other convicts escaped. He was recognized here as the long sought criminal celebrity and arrested.

"When I first got away from Sing Sing," said Green through the bars of his solitary cell at the central police station, "I went into Canada and then west. The Canadian mounted police are easy for any one who is clever. They nabbed me twice, and I got away both times."

"Then I drifted south through Chicago down to Springfield, St. Louis, Nashville, Little Rock and finally to New Orleans. I figured that the best way to keep away from the police was to act as if I had no fear of them. At times I used to stop them on the street at night to ask for a match just to see if any would recognize me. Then I had a tilt in El Paso and succeeded in getting over into Mexico."

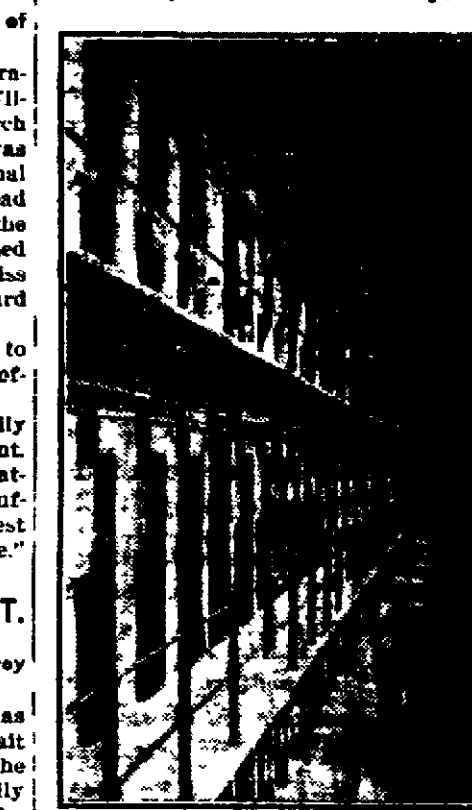

"I got out fine in Mexico, but they did a lot of shooting down there, and I did some too. I'll never go back there again."

"I thought I was done for for fair when they arrested me here, the first time, on a drunkenness charge," continued Green. "But I got through all right. I acted as if I had never been in a jail before. It would have been easy to get out if I had wanted to, but what was the use? The police already had me by one name, and I figured that I was safe if I served my ninety days and kept that name when I got out. But they finally recognized me, and here I am. I won't kick and am willing to go back and serve my time."

Green has been living in Los Angeles a year. Speaking of the escape from Sing Sing, he said:

"Me and Jack White and Barry Boyle and Brannigan and a fellow named Izzy finally decided to toss ourselves out of the place. They picked me, because I was some strong to take care of the two guards. I grabbed one of them when he was in bed, bound and gagged him, then plucked the other one, who was walking past me. He was easy to handle, and I put him under the gun. Boyle had got a saw out of the machine shop where he worked daytimes, and with that we cut our way through the bars. It took about twenty-five minutes to get away."

We were going to make a whole-some break, getting every one of us out of there a chump, but they were smart. So the five of us went through the bars. We climbed down a wall about from the second story. After we got into the yard we climbed the iron fence, which was twelve feet high. When we once got out of the yard we jumped into the Hudson river, swam around about half a mile to a wharf and climbed out."

INDIANS REGAINING SIGHT.

Physicians Are Conquering Brachoma, Prevalent Among Full Bloods.

Washington.—Dr. H. H. Kelsey, United States Indian superintendent in Oklahoma, in an annual report to Secretary of the Interior, states that many Indians who were blind for years now see out of a treated eye have had their sight entirely restored. Two eye specialists who have been at work for a year have found brachoma very prevalent among the full bloods.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

A New Kind of Evening Class Needed

FOR those who cannot go to school or college during the day, or whose early education has been neglected, we have nowadays evening classes in almost every branch of learning. At the present time, a man or woman can, by studying at night, get a college or university education. No field of book knowledge has been overlooked. But there has been one department altogether overlooked; and many an ambitious man or woman needs instruction of this kind, as much as he does book knowledge. Some of them need it more, and not only need it more, but want it more. And many who have taken correspondence or night courses until they are thoroughly at home in all the isms and dogmas of the age lack this one thing; and lacking this, the result of much of their study can be put to little practical value.

And this new branch that needs so sadly to be taught is deportment. Many a man or woman who has worked himself or herself up in the world from an uncultured home, who has studied until he is well-informed, does not know how to enter or leave a room gracefully, does not know what to do or say when introduced, does not know what to do with his hands or feet; in a word, is embarrassed and ill at ease in society. And thus he is at a disadvantage.

Many a bright girl goes from a home that is altogether lacking in the essentials of good breeding to a night school. Then, she gets into a store or office, and works herself up to a good position. In time, she earns a large salary, and meets socially, those far above what her early home and its surroundings were. And often she is at a loss as to what to do and how to conduct herself.

If there were classes where one could be taught the usages of society, they would be of great help to many an ambitious young man or girl. Breeding is supposed to be a matter of birth; but nevertheless, the bright, ambitious boy or girl could be taught, to some extent, how to be a lady or gentleman. And in this country of ours, where so many who need this training forge to the front, without doubt, such classes would be popular.

Perhaps in the future, our evening schools and evening colleges will have a department of deportment. And many there are also, in supposedly cultured homes, who would attend these classes with profit.

NUTTER RIFFEY.
Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, Mr. John L. Nutter and Miss Edith Riffey were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thos. Hollar at his home in Poplar avenue.

COCHRAN-COULTER.
Palms, ferns and southern smilax with cut flowers, turned the home of Mrs. Ada Coulter in North street into a floral bower Wednesday, when her daughter, Miss Marjorie Coulter, became the wife of Mr. Ernest Cochran of Canada, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cochran of Pittsburgh, formerly of Newark. The ceremony was read before an embankment of palms and ferns, by Rev. L. P. Franklin, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church at high noon. Only the immediate families of the couple were present.

The bride was charming in a robe of white satin foundation with overdress of lace and carried bride's roses, tied with tulle. Miss Olive Kent acted as maid of honor. She was attired in pink messaline and carried pink roses. Mr. Harold Cochran of Pittsburgh, brother of the groom, was best man.

In the dining room where the bride's table was placed, green and white were the prevailing colors. Covers were laid for the following, besides the bridal party: Rev. Mr. Franklin, Mrs. C. E. Cochran, mother of the groom, Mrs. Ada Coulter, mother of the bride, and Mrs. G. H. Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Cochran left for a trip east and later will go to Calgary, Alberta, Canada, for their future home.

LAST OF THE MAINE GONE.

Havana Harbor Same as Before Wreck of the Battleship.

Washington—The removal of the last remnants of the wreck of the old battleship Maine and the evacuation of the site of the disaster, which it is the bottom of the harbor, has been completed. Colonel William M. Barlow of the army engineers was detailed to carry out the task, and he has submitted a general report, and an account of expenditures, to the navy.

The forward turret, which was discovered after the found of the ship proper, was sunk deep in the mud at the bottom of the harbor to prevent it from becoming a menace to navigation. The mainmast of the ship will be sent to Arlington cemetery to be embodied in a monument to the Maine dead, who were buried there last March. Sufficient funds are left from the appropriation for the raising of the battleship to provide a setting for the monument. The after turret and two ten-inch guns were given to the Cuban government.

BOXING CLERGYMAN COMING.

A Birmingham "Bendigo" to Conduct Mission in New York.

London.—The Rev. Arnold Pinchard of St. Jude's church, Birmingham, has been selected to conduct a Lenten mission in New York at the Church of the Transfiguration and at St. Paul's, Brooklyn.

In his early days Mr. Pinchard was a strong evangelist, but now he is the leader of the high church party in Birmingham. He is an exceedingly eloquent preacher.

His church is in the center of the most unpromising district of the city, but in a very short time he revolutionized the district by methods not always orthodox, yet highly successful. He started a boxing club as a means of attracting some of the rougher element of the parish and was not averse to indulging in a bout with gloves with some of his most expert members, being always ready to give and take a fair share of punishment.

Women should make good doctors. At any rate many of them are cures.

If love makes the world go round, it's no wonder there are so many dizzy girls.

PEACE DELEGATES DELIVER NOTE TO RESCHID PASHA

London, Jan. 26.—The note drafted by the peace delegates was delivered to Reschid Pasha, head of the Serbian delegation, by Reschid Pasha shortly after noon. The determination to force the allies to this course of action was a result of reports during the night and again this morning of grave reports from the Turkish troops stationed on the lines, a large portion of whom appear to be inclined to follow the lead of the Young Turks.

The gravity of the situation at Constantinople is shown by the fact that the peace powers at the conference, to the hundreds of lives. Austria-Hungary, which in the past has refused to join the other powers in any concrete measures, has now ordered two warships to be at readiness to start for the east at any moment.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT TO BEAR HEALTH LECTURES

One of the great curses of modern times is the catering to the tyrannical demands of fashion in the matter of dress," said A. J. Kennedy at the Adventist church. In spite of the heavy snow, making walking difficult, a well-sized audience showed their interest in the present series of health lectures by their presence. A marked interest was seen by the number of questions asked during the 15 minutes devoted to considering questions.

It is announced that tonight at the church a demonstration will be made of simple water treatments for common diseases. The Newark Sanitarium nurses will conduct the demonstration. Such maladies as sore throat, cold, catarrhs, grippe, hoarseness, local pains, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, sprains, bruises, etc., will be treated by means of the fomentation, compress, cold pack, etc.

RECEIVER GETS ORDER FROM COURT

TO MANUFACTURE RAW MATERIAL ON HAND AT SWISHER BROTHERS.

Employees To Be Paid Wages Until Time of Receivership—Damage Suit On Trial.

In the case of John Swisher vs. Harry Swisher, the receiver procured an order of the court granting leave to make into cigars certain raw material already on hand. Also an order of the court granting leave to pay the employees of the partnership their wages up until the time the receiver took charge of the partnership.

In common pleas court Wednesday morning the court and jury took up the trial of the case of Mary M. Eggleston vs. Frank Lanehart.

Plaintiff says that on the 18th day of June, 1910, she was driving a horse hitched to a buggy on the public highway leading from Granville to Newark. That about a half mile west of what is known as the "Dug-way," plaintiff saw an automobile approaching, driven by defendant. That the defendant was driving his machine in a careless and improper manner and in a very high and dangerous rate of speed. She says that her horse became frightened at the machine, that she signaled to the defendant to slacken his speed and stop the machine, but he failed to do so. That the road at that point was very narrow, making it impossible for the plaintiff to turn her horse and buggy around to avoid meeting the machine.

She says that without any carelessness or negligence on her part, the defendant, with the machine, came toward her at a high rate of speed, frightening her horse and making it uncontrollable, causing the horse to turn around upsetting the buggy, throwing plaintiff to the ground with great force, over an embankment, breaking the radius bone of her arm, dislocating the bones of the wrist, spraining her ankle, bruising the small of her back and hip.

She says that before receiving the injuries she was well and healthy. That she has been permanently injured and crippled for life. She asks for a verdict for $3000 damages.

An answer was filed by defendant, in which he says that the accident was due to plaintiff's own negligence and carelessness in driving her horse. He asks that the petition be dismissed.

The plaintiff, by a reply, denies the allegation of contributory negligence.

ATTENTION MOTHERS!

If You Have or Know of a Delicate Child, Read This Letter.

"My little daughter Louise, age 9 years, has always been delicate, anemic, had no appetite, and seemed listless, and we could not seem to find anything that would help her, until we were advised to give her Vinoli. She started taking it six weeks ago, and inside of two weeks she showed a marked improvement both in appetite and looks. Being so well pleased with the results, I continued giving it to her, and words fail to express my gratitude and faith in Vinoli, both as a blood maker and body builder. As my child was an anemic for so long, I make the reason for the stronger for me to recommend it to others in similar condition." Geo. E. Munro, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Vinoli not only restores health and strength in conditions like this because in a natural manner, it increases the appetite, tones up the digestive organs, enriches the blood and strengthens every organ of the body.

Every bottle of Vinoli is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Frank D. Hall, Drugstore, Newark, N. J.

AMUSEMENTS

Madam Butterfly at the Matinee.
Giacomo Puccini's most famous, as well as his most popular composition, "Madam Butterfly," with its dramatic, pathetic and beautiful story by David Belasco and John Luther Long, and its splendid musical score, considered by many great critics as the finest Puccini ever written, will be the matinee offering at the Auditorium.

Miss Marguerite Fields, will appear with his capable company of players in a series of plays that range from a modern drama of the present day. An entire variety of special scene is carried by Mr. Brown, who is famous in mounting his plays with metropolitan largeness and who has the reputation of never neglecting the minutest detail in his stage work. The Kirk Brown production is so far removed from the average stage productions that they are in a class by themselves. This fact has been recognized in past performances and is more than emphasized this season as is also the fact that Mr. Brown is looked upon as one of people and gave it to them. That's the answer. "Mutt and Jeff" comes to the Auditorium Saturday, Feb. 1, matinee and night. Seats on sale tomorrow.

Carter DeHaven.

Carter DeHaven seems to be associated with plays of the motor world. First he was with "The Girl in the Taxi," and now he is made a star in "Exceeding the Speed Limit," the new musical farce from the French, which comes to the Auditorium on Monday evening, Feb. 1.

With Mrs. Fiske.

Frederick Perry, who has appeared in a number of political plays, such as "The High Road," the first of stage ambition, as he appears as the governor of the Empire State, who afterwards becomes the candidate of his party for the presidency, to which he is, presumably, elected. His first political role was that of a district attorney, and he has since then played practically every intermediate political role between that and his present one.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Starting next Sunday, February 2, the Orpheum theatre will be open with a special run of the very latest and high class play, "The Girl in the Taxi," and all new, never before presented in New York as they will be all the latest releases. The feature for Sunday will be a Kay-Dee special "The Girl in the Taxi," a big battle scene with two Indians, U. S. soldiers, cowboys, etc.

The large special screen will be used and a new lighting system installed. The up-to-date shows in the picture line visit the Arcade theatre Sunday. Miss Jennie Lind will sing. Music by a new four piece orchestra with Grace Cranston as director.

"Mutt and Jeff."

You can no more make a success out of bad material than you can keep a good thing down. "Mutt and Jeff" scored a pronounced success at its first performance. Why? Because the play possessed real merit and the people instantly recognized the fact. That success has been growing and reaching out until the report from every part of the country says: "The one big hit of the season." Not only the people, critics and newspapers pronounce it a hit; but the heads of the great theatrical syndicates who control the book of the thousands of theatres throughout this vast country send out the report, "Mutt and Jeff" the financial success of the year. Think of it, overshadowing the success of all the great stars. "Mutt and Jeff" leads them all. Is it any wonder that everybody wants to see it? The reports of the newspaper critics nor the report from the syndicate did not make "Mutt and Jeff" a success. The people made it a success because it was just the sort of entertainment they wanted to see. Gus Hill knew the wants of the

The Orpheum.
"The Winning Miss," a big musical mixture, is now on at the Arcade theatre. The show is one of high class, with many song features, fancy dances, jugglers and pretty scenery. Some of the latest song hits are introduced. See the big cabaret scene, plenty of music, girls and a jolly folie. Don't miss it.

Coming for next week, Arthur Harris and his Dandy Girls, a musical comedy of a tabloid nature with a pretty chorus of ten funny comedians and lots of comedy. Watch for the big feature next week.

BIG MUSICAL EVENT.

The red letter event of the musical season is announced for Feb. 20, when the Philharmonic Society of New York, under Josef Strassky, will be heard at Memorial Hall, in Columbus, with Madam Marie Rapold, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan opera house, as soloist. This is the most important orchestra and the most important vocalist that have come to Central Ohio this season. The Philharmonic Orchestra last year made its first visit to Ohio and achieved record receipts for that time.

A splendidly interesting program has been provided. The house will be scaled from $2.00 to 50c.

Mail orders will receive the same attention as that accorded people living in the city and will be filled in the order of their receipt. Remittance should be made payable to T. T. Frankenberg, care McClellan's book store, Columbus.

PAINE'S BIRTHDAY TO BE CELEBRATED TODAY ON BOTH SIDES THE ATLANTIC

Thomas Paine, once the detested "infidel," will today be remembered as a patriot and benefactor of humanity by admirers on both sides of the Atlantic. The city of Theford, in Norfolk, England, where Paine was born 176 years ago today, will hold a celebration and plan the erection of a memorial to its most distinguished son. At New Rochelle, near New York city, where Paine died, the usual birthday meeting will be held. Paine was given a farm by the state of New York in recognition of his services to his adopted country. The old Paine house is now preserved as a memorial and contains many relics of the author of "The Crisis"—which began with the immortal sentence, "These are the times that try men's souls"—"The Rights of Man" and "The Age of Reason." A lifelike wax figure of Paine, seated in his favorite chair which he used in the library of his New Rochelle home, is a remarkable feature of the Paine museum. A monument to Paine also stands in New Rochelle, and in Boston a Paine Memorial Building perpetuates his name.

The rehabilitation of Paine was largely due to the efforts of Dr. Moncreux D. Conway, the late distinguished author and one-time famous London preacher, whose biography of the Theford man placed him in an entirely new light. Dr. Conway was the first president of the Paine Memorial Association, which has since his death carried on the work. Many eminent men, including clergymen, have been prominent in the work of the association. Paine's body was originally interred at New Rochelle, but was removed to England by William Cobbett, the noted English writer and economist. Free-thinkers were formerly alone in celebrating Paine's birthday, but many classes now pay tribute to his memory. In England the suffragettes hail him as their pioneer, for it was Paine who first suggested equal political rights for the fair sex. His services to France in the bloody days of the revolution, for which he was rewarded by being thrown into prison because of his appeal for clemency for the king, have not been forgotten, and Paris now has a monument to his memory.

Paine was a pioneer in many fields, although he is chiefly remembered because of his attacks on Christianity. He built the first iron bridge in England, which still spans the Wear, at Sunderland. He first suggested the federal union of states. He was the first to agitate the abolition of slavery and organized the first society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. The old-age pension scheme, now in effect in England, was first suggested by Paine. His appeal for international peace and arbitration was the first of its kind ever published. International copyrights were first proposed by Paine. The education of the poor at the public expense, the foundation of the public school system, was originally proposed by Paine. The Louisiana Purchase, out of which several great commonwealths have been carved, was originally Paine's idea.

FIRST THINGS

ASSASSINATIONS.

The first attempt on the life of a president of the United States was made 78 years ago today, when Richard Lawrence attempted to assassinate Andrew Jackson. He failed in his project and was tried for murder, but was found to be insane. Lawrence was a house painter, and had no real grievance against President Jackson. Since then three American presidents—Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley—have been slain by assassins. Assassinations of rulers and officials have been of frequent occurrence throughout all history. In Russia, a hotbed of murderous plotters, the bomb has of late years been the favorite weapon of assassins. In America and England the revolver has most often been made use of by assassins of officials, while in the Latin nations of Europe the dagger has been most often used. Few of the monarchs and high officials of modern times have been exempt from murderous plots. Alexander II, of Russia was attacked five times before he was finally killed by a bomb in 1881, and his successor is never free from the fear of meeting the same fate.

CARNATION DAY.

In many of the cities of the United States there will be a great demand today for white carnations, that flower having been chosen as a symbol of McKinley's birthday. The Carnation League of America has been formed to perpetuate the memory of the martyr president.

KANSAS BIRTHDAY.

In the Sunflower State this is Kansas Day, the 22d anniversary of the admission of that state into the Union.

Go to it. Even the electric button won't accomplish much unless it is pushed.

MADAM BUTTERFLY
THE MODERN GRAND OPERA MASTERPIECE
By GIACOMO PUCCINI—Founded on the Drama by David Belasco and John Luther Long est of living composers through the success of his two operas, "La Boheme" and "La Tosca." Having looked for some time for a suitable subject for a new work, he hailed with delight this Belasco-Long drama. The librettists who had demonstrated their ability by giving him the books for his last two successes, Messrs. Giacosa and Illica, were at once set to work on a libretto of "Madam Butterfly." Puccini finished the score in 1904, when it was produced for the first time at Milan.

Puccini, although this composer had become the idol of his countrymen through his other triumphs, this opera was at first received with more cordiality in every land save in his native Italy. Even now, it is given oftener each season in Germany with the United States, scored in number of performances, Italy coming third and France fourth. In his own country Puccini's "La Boheme" is the most popular of his works.

"Madam Butterfly" was given in America for the first time in 1906 by Henry W. Savage's organization, with a libretto translated into the vernacular. This offering had the longest continuous run any grand opera has had in one city in this country: fifty consecutive performances in New York City. The nearest approach to this record was that of the Aborn English Grand Opera Company's record of this opera four years later, when it ran for forty-two consecutive performances in New York. A few months after its first presentation in English, the Metropolitan Opera Company presented "Madam Butterfly" in Italian, with Geraldine Farrar in the title role, in which she made her greatest hit, with Caruso, Homer and Scotti in the cast.

The modern school of operatic composition founded by Wagner and followed by all grand opera composers in recent years, has been carried to its highest development by Puccini in his score of "Madam Butterfly." There are no detached numbers, as in the old-fashioned operas, but the flow of music continues from one mood to another, matching the progress of the drama which accompanies it on the stage. Appropriate motifs appear on the surface of the rich harmony, and "tone painting" in the orchestra reflects the atmosphere and incidents of the story enacted, as only a genius could conceive it.

Ultra modernists among composers have profited by the Wagnerian teachings, but many have interpreted him wrongly, sacrificing melody and musical beauty to the craze for bizarre orchestral effects, almost entirely eliminating opportunities for vocal display by the artists on the stage. Puccini, like Verdi, took a truer conception of Wagner's theories, and while they have put them into practice with artistic effect, they have not lessened their regard for the beautiful in music, and the scores of Puccini's "Madam Butterfly" and Verdi's "Falstaff" are as rich in lovely melodies and brilliant musical ideas as Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," while their orchestrations are rated among the greatest masterpieces of that kind.

Among the moments in "Madam Butterfly" when the voices of the cast show to advantage are the duet, "Love or Fancy" of the tenor and baritone, Butterfly's entrance song and "Hear Me" of the soprano, and the love duet of the tenor and soprano in the first act; the soprano's "Some Day I'll Come" her "Letter Duet" with the baritone, her "Do You Know My Sweet One," sung to her child, and her "Duet of the Flowers," sung with the contralto in the second act; the duet "Did I Not Tell You?" for tenor and baritone, the trio "Night Can Consume Him" for tenor, soprano and baritone, and Butterfly's farewell in the third act.

Reclaiming An Ohio Swamp

Five thousand acres of swamp land in Bloomfield township, Trumbull county, Ohio, is to be reclaimed and turned into fertile trucking farms. If the plans of a recently formed development company work out. The work of reclamation has already been started, and a big floating dredge has unearthed up to rods of the fifteen-mile ditch that is to be dug. This ditch, which will drain into Rock Creek, is to be seven or eight feet deep, twenty feet wide at the top and seven feet at the bottom. Smaller lateral ditches will be dug, and at the borders of the area, the will be put in so that the land will be completely drained and put into good farming condition. There are about 2,000 acres of deep, mucky land in the area adapted to corn and clover growing; the rest is a rich black soil that should be well adapted to a variety of crops. The development company will start a number of demonstration farms to show what can be done on the land and then sell it in small tracts for trucking purposes. It is surrounded by a number of large, well-known good markets for the district, which will be operated on a co-operative basis.

Patrolman Abbott is still working on the case and may be able to turn up the other articles in a few days.

GENTLE READER, A TRUE EGG STORY

A certain workman in a Newark factory seems to be constitutionally opposed to the institution commonly known as a Bath. It is this man's custom to appear each morning wearing the grime he carried as he left the shop the previous night. He appeared one day last week with a touch of the yolk of an egg upon his lip—a trifle extravagant, but nevertheless true.

Seeking to have a little fun, a fellow employee observed:

"Hello, Jake, bet I can tell what you had for breakfast this morning."

Words were bandied back and forth and finally a wager was made, the loser to set 'em up to a good cigar or something of that sort. Then came the climax:

"Eggs."

"You're wrong," said Jake. "We had eggs yesterday morning."

KNABE BROS. PIANOS

Are made under the supervision of WM. KNABE III. and E. J. KNABE JR., who were the former manufacturers of KNABE Pianos, of Baltimore, Md.

The Knabe Bros. Piano is now the only piano manufactured by a KNABE today, and therefore must not be confused with what is still called the "Original" Knabe Piano.

THE BIRTHDAY CALENDAR.

JANUARY 29

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

As a new year awaits you, with great advantages in experience, but with little pecuniary success. If you are employed it will take much cleverness and attention on your part to satisfy your employer and yourself.

Those born today will have original ideas and should be encouraged to work these out, for their signs confer inventive genius. Some important discovery may be the result of their work. Their danger will be from too great specialization, and plenty of active recreation, with cheerful companions, is therefore necessary.

ON SECOND THOUGHT.

Buck Kirby says he finds life tire-some enough at best and he does not propose to make it drearier by visiting his relatives.

An optimist is a man who has mining stock to sell. A pessimist is the gentleman who bought it.

The women in a small town look downy well. But the men often need the kind ministrations of both the barber and the tailor.

It is true that a woman can not sharpen a lead pencil. It is equally true that a man can not tell whether her hair is on straight.

You probably have noticed that a man who devotes much time to wheeling his second baby around the block.

When a girl first makes up her mind to marry she is looking for a man with money or an army officer.

A few of the avenues to wealth are closed every year. The easy times during which a worthless man could acquire a lot of land by marrying an Indian lady are about over.

The rule is that a widower must erect a stone over his first wife's grave before he marries again. But the rule occasionally is violated.

A good deal of attention is paid to it, but the weight of the president's Thanksgiving turkey is one of the unimportant things.

The blow-fly is said to have a strong sense of smell. But we don't care, do you?

PROF. A. D. COLE SAILS FOR ENGLAND

Prof. A. D. Cole, head of the physics department at Ohio State University, formerly of Denison, will sail for England Saturday, accompanied by his brother, Mr. Leland Cole, who has been studying in Washington, D. C., since last September, completing his work at the bureau of standards about two weeks ago, when he was joined by Mrs. Cole. Since that time they have visited Baltimore, New York, Salem and Boston. After a brief sojourn in London, Prof. Cole will locate in Berlin, where he will engage in research work. After a visit with relatives in the city, Mrs. Cole will return to Grandview to the home of her father, Mr. E. J. Downer.

Prof. Cole is discussing the idea of a roof garden on top of its City Hall.

Some citizens blame incompetent city engineers for floods damaging low-lying districts.
